

The story of Neo the Kid and the Hidden Bowling Pins

Little Neo the Kid lived above the bowling alley that used to be here, way up in the attic. Every night, the grown ups would stay up late and bowl. They would hoot and holler and slam their big bowling balls into those noisy pins over and over again. And poor little Neo could not get to sleep. So one night after all the bowling finally stopped, little Neo got out of bed and very quietly, on his tippy toes, crept down the stairs and into the back of the bowling alley and took all of the bowling pins and hid them.

Of course the grown ups were very upset because they wanted to bowl, but little Neo never said a word about where he hid those pins. And they're still hidden in this very restaurant. So if you find them, the legend of Neo will live on and you will get a prize. So while you're here at Neo Cantina, look for the bowling pins. And when you find them, whisper where they are to your server and they are duty-bound by Neo himself to reward you for your silence.
